China alcanza los 2,67 millones de hectáreas de reforestación en los últimos 12 meses

Beijing, 7 jun (Xinhua) -- La China ha alcanzado los 40 millones de mu (2,67 millones de hectáreas) de reforestación y plantación de gramíneas en los últimos 12 meses bajo su principal programa de ecologización, según datos oficiales publicados este jueves.

La Administración Nacional de Bosques y Pastos informó en una conferencia que el Programa Forestal de Protección de los Tres Nortes (TSFP, por sus siglas en inglés) ha registrado un total de 56 proyectos en construcción desde junio de 2024, incluidos los proyectos de las dos tierras arenosas de Hunshandake y Maowusu.

La China se encuentra entre los países con la desertificación más severa, con sus áreas desertificadas ubicadas principalmente en el noroeste, norte y noreste de China, apodados como "los tres nortes".

El TSFP, el mayor programa de forestación del mundo lanzado en 1978 y con finalización prevista para 2050, tiene como objetivo rehabilitar y verdear las tierras propensas al desierto y las áreas desertificadas en "los tres nortes".

En junio de 2024, la China propuso transformar el TSFP en una "Gran Muralla Verde" y barrera de seguridad ecológica totalmente funcionales e inquebrantables en el norte de China.

La administración informó que ha intensificado el apoyo de políticas al programa en los últimos 12 meses, con medidas para organizar la emisión de títulos especiales del tesoro, proporcionar subsidios especiales, garantizar su uso de agua y mejorar los servicios financieros. También se ha canalizado más energía hacia la innovación tecnológica, combatiendo el estrangulamiento de la lucha contra la desertificación.

Mirando al futuro, se tomarán más esfuerzos sólidos para garantizar un suministro estable de esquejes y semillas de gramíneas, promover el control de arena junto con la exploración de energía {img}voltaica y otros nuevos modelos y fortalecer la innovación en tecnologías relacionadas, según la administración.
